LONDON, Sept. 14.—German bombs again dropped on London this afternoon as for the third time today the shrieking of air raid sirens sent the city's population scurrying to the bomb shelters.

During the day at least two enemy planes were shot down by British fighting planes.

Bombs Are Heard

The sirens began wailing at 3:45 p. m. (10:45 a. m. EDT) and a few moments later the dull boom of bursting bombs could be heard in the center of the city as anti-aircraft guns barked into action.

Royal air force fighters instantly took off in pursuit, and subsequently the chatter of machine guns and the roar of motors could be heard overhead.

As the sounds of the aerial battle moved away from the city proper, the distant sound of bursting bombs came from the suburban area. Finally the all clear signal was given at 5:06 p. m.

The aerial activity over the city lasted only a few minutes, and it appeared that the German planes consisted only of a small formation which managed to penetrate the London defenses under cover of banks of clouds.

In this attack—75th of the war—it is believed that damage and casualties were slight.

Father Of Butler Fullback Fatally Stricken At Game

Overcome with the excitement of a touchdown drive sparked by his son, Harold, Barnard Mintz, of 116½ Fifth avenue, Butler, died on his way to the Jameson Memorial hospital Friday night after he had collapsed in the visitors' stands at Taggart stadium.

The heart attack came at one of the most exciting points in a football game here in years. Butler had driven down to the four-yard line and was held by New Castle. There was only a minute or two left to play.

Harold Mintz, the deceased man's son, fullback of the Butler team, had been the outstanding star of the game, and with the ball in his team's possession near midfield, rose to new heights.

Mintz carried the ball for substantial gains. He passed for another long gain, and then with three New Castle men charging at him, side-slipped his way out to pass to Paffrath, who went over for the touchdown.

It was the first time since 1934 that Butler had been able to tie New Castle. There was a chance to defeat New Castle if the conversion was good. The tenseness of the moment.

Search Abandoned At New Kensington

(International News Service)

NEW KENSINGTON, Pa., Sept. 14.—Search for additional bodies was abandoned today as police decided that George B. Bell was riding alone when his automobile plunged off the Ninth street bridge into the Allegheny river yesterday.

Authorities at first believed that Miss Stella Copenhagen, 18, of New Kensington and another man also were riding in Bell's car. A check disclosed that the girl had spent the night with a girl friend, and likewise, no man was reported missing.

The 32-year-old Brackenridge victim's body was recovered hours after the fatal plunge. Firemen and police continued to drag the river until convinced that Bell was alone.

LONDON, Sept. 14.—From dusk to dawn, it was revealed today, British bombers blasted French channel ports in a tremendous new offensive against German continental "springboards" for an invasion of England.

Hurling down huge bombs that shook even Britain's southeastern shoreline as they fell, the RAF raiders ranged up and down the Nazi-held French coast, spreading destruction from points south of Boulogne to others north of Dunkerque.

Hits Are Visible

Observers on the English coast facing Calais reported that the British planes dived into a terrific anti-aircraft barrage of tracer fire. But above all else, they said, the flashes of bomb hits were visible, indicating the British planes were using bombs of highest calibre. Thruds of the exploding missiles caused reverberations that shook the entire southeastern English coast.

The battle reached such intensity, observers added, that the whole French coastline appeared on fire. At the same time, all through the night, searchlight and aerial activity was reported along the southeast English coast, evidently as a precaution against a possible surprise Nazi invasion attempt on this most crucial week end of the war.

CHICAGO, Sept. 14.—From the roaring welcome of Chicago, Wendell Willkie headed today into the small towns and medium sized cities of Illinois and Iowa with his campaign for the presidency.

The mid-west citadel of "democracy" really put on a show for the candidate and the candidate returned the honor. He delivered five speeches during the day, rolled out some 6,000 words without hesitancy, including four which the regional headquarters of the Democratic campaign quickly seized on to make political ammunition.

Democrats Seize Words

Those four were "to hell with Chicago" spoken with a grin when he addressed a crowd outside the Western Electric plant, just over the city line in Cicero.

The phrase which was taken up by Sen. Scott W. Lucas, mid-west manager of the Democratic campaign, was delivered when Willkie under the impression that he was in Chicago made some reference to the city.

"You're not in Chicago, you're in Cicero," someone in the audience called. "All right," said Willkie, "To hell with Chicago. We're away from the Kelly-Nash machine."

Within an hour, typewriters in Democratic headquarters were rolling hot.

"He has done more than defame Chicago," said Lucas in a lengthy statement. "He has defamed Illinois which is proud of its great city and the people in it."

Dean Pleads Guilty To Murder Charge

Before Judges W. Walter Braham and Thomas W. Dickey on Friday afternoon, September 13, Arthur F. Dean pleaded guilty to the charge of murder of his sister-in-law on June 13.

By his plea of guilty Dean obviates the necessity of a jury trial and the evidence will be presented to the judges for their decision as to what the penalty should be. Two penalties are possible for first degree murder, death in the electric chair or life imprisonment in the state penitentiaries.

The murder of Helen Nasal was one of the most brutal crimes in the history of the county. About midnight June 13 her slashed body was found in a field some two hundred yards from her home on Motor street, Shenango township, near Butler avenue. Captured early the next morning Dean first denied any knowledge of the murder.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 14.—In a history-making move, congress today completed action on the conscription bill and sent the measure to the White House.

The final legislative action was accomplished when the house adopted, by a vote of 232 to 124, a report by a joint senate-house conference committee appointed to adjust differences between senate and house versions of the legislation.

The measure, which subjects 16,500,000 males between the ages of 21-35 inclusive to a year of military training and service, becomes effective upon approval by President Roosevelt. He is expected to sign the bill Monday.

The historic measure—first peace-time draft bill—paves the way for General George C. Marshall, chief of staff of the army, to achieve his goal of a well-trained fighting force of 1,200,000 to protect the United States and Central and South America.

The next step, after presidential approval, will be a request for an appropriation. Congress will be asked to vote between $1,750,000,000 and $2,000,000,000 to finance the draft. National Guard and to provide housing, house leaders in fiscal affairs said.

"If you listen to the new dealers you are not supposed to talk about the third term issue" Cooke added. "You are not supposed to even think about it."

Eight Probes In Powder Plant Blast

Death Toll Is Now Forty-Two

Debris Of New Jersey Plant Is Being Searched For Additional Victims

CAUSE OF BLAST NOT DETERMINED

(International News Service)
KENVIL, N. J., Sept. 14.—Eight separate investigations were under way today into the cause of the explosion that destroyed part of the Hercules powder plant here Thursday, as a crew of 200 workmen searched the debris for bodies of further victims and for evidence of sabotage.

The death toll stood at forty-two and of these six were unidentified and their bodies were so mutilated that identification may never be made. Thirteen persons were listed as missing. Seventy four of the nearly 300 persons injured in the blast were in nearby hospitals and several of them were in critical condition.

Sabotage Possibility

The possibility of sabotage remained paramount in the interests of the federal, state and local agencies investigating the blast. So far there was no definite evidence of sabotage, nor was there definite rejection of this theory. The confusion and mystery cloaking the disaster was so great that experts said it might be weeks before the cause was discovered.

Fingerprints of employees, including those of new men taken on recently in the rush of work occasioned by huge government contracts, were understood to have been sent to FBI headquarters in Washington to be compared with prints of criminals and aliens on file.

Two weeks ago counsel was appointed for him and on Friday the two attorneys, Thomas Mansell and Charles V. Ross appeared with him in court. Clerk of Courts John A. Edgar read the indictment to him to which Dean pleaded "guilty."

BRITISH READY FOR INVASION ATTEMPT

tified, and not only in a thin line, but in depth for many, many miles. Military critics anticipated that simultaneously with invasion by water the Germans will attempt a mass descent of paratroopers, aiming to land as nearly as possible immediately behind the British coastal forces.

Against this as well as against every other non conceivable contingency, the British are prepared with a thoroughness and wealth of equipment which one could not have deemed possible three months ago when the British expeditionary force lost all its equipment in Flanders and the fall of France cast a shroud of gloom over all those who knew the terrible strength of Hitler's war machine.

Yet this southeast town is a long way from being the safest place on earth.

Bombs Drop Near

Standing in front of a large hotel where we dined a fortnight ago, we were truly agast to see it now a heap of rubble.

"That was the result of four bombs," explained our guide, and at the same moment I saw a bombing airplane coming over.

"Oh, that's a British Blenheim," he declared, and simultaneously we all saw four bombs falling in their languid way from the bomber's belly.

It was a German, after all. There was not time to run, but only to fling ourselves down in the gutter and gaze horror-struck at the four bombs coming like aimed rifle fire straight—we thought—upon us.

Four fearful explosions yards away told us that we had happily misjudged and had time to dive like rats into the cellar of the wrecked hotel for the rest of the bombardment.

It was a weird experience. We had spent last night in an English country house only a few miles from the coast, almost within the sound of the breakers. Our only worry consisted of the fact that this would be our first quiet night in the last terrible week and away from bomb-torn London and that we might sleep just fast enough to be surprised by the German army.

British officers kindly agreed to send a motorcycle messenger at the first intimation of a landing attempt. He never had to come.

Still all the armed forces sleep fully dressed.

Hitler's hate now being poured on London will certainly sweep along this coast if he is ever going to try to fulfill his threats.

For the first time in his almost unimpeded career, he is going to meet people as tough as Nazis and not so brittle. To fight this war the British only needed to learn to hate.

London is a mortuary and hospitals full of victims of Hitler's indiscriminate bombs have taught the British this military virtue.

He started early in the morning to blast the Kelly-Nash machine and was still hard at it in his last speech of the day, but the city administration which he attacked provided perfect policing and the candidate was never even seriously booed although he had predicted that his meetings might be packed by the machine.

Today the candidate was booked for ten speeches most of them from the rear platform of his train as it headed for Kansas City. At Peoria the candidate was to leave the train for half an hour and at Rock Island he was to change for an automobile and drive to Davenport, Iowa.

Platform speeches were scheduled in order at Joliet, Morris, Ottawa, LaSalle, and Galesburg, all in Illinois, and Muscatine, Washington, and Fairfield, Iowa, with the final speech of the day at 9:15 p. m. C.S.T.

Willkie's voice was husky as he made his final speech yesterday and he was tired after hours of endless riding and speaking.

No one realizes more than the candidate the severity of the western trip—a schedule which calls for a total of 69 speeches to be followed by a seventh speech at White Plains, N. NAZI BOMBERS KEEP UP RAIDS OVER LONDON railings fronting the official London residence of King George VI and Queen Elizabeth.

Elaborate precautionary measures, taken before the time-bomb let loose, prevented further or more serious damage.

Authorities, who permitted revelation of this news, said that six bombs—not five as first reported—struck Buckingham palace and the surrounding grounds during yesterday's daylight German raid.

At the same time it was disclosed that famed Westminster Abbey was slightly damaged by the explosion of a powerful bomb which narrowly missed the historic edifice during last night's eight-hour raid.

Abbey Has Narrow Escape

When the bomb fell near the Abbey, it was revealed, the 17th century west window depicting the Biblical prophets, known to millions of tourists who have visited the Abbey, was slightly damaged.

A few small squares in the window were broken, but authorities said they can be replaced easily.

The Abbey, where British sovereigns have been buried for centuries and where King George VI and his predecessors have been crowned in ceremonies of regal magnificence, had its narrow escape from disaster only a few hours before German planes renewed their daylight sorties against London but failed to reach the city.

Authorities also permitted it to be revealed that the law courts, located where the Strand becomes Fleet street at Temple Bar, and the huge, modern block-square white granite south Africa house in Trafalgar Square, both were damaged by bombs.

The German air activity today seemed confined to testing the defenses along a greater part of the southeast coast. Several enemy aircraft were reported over towns in that region this afternoon.

Rev. Johnston At Central Church On Sunday Evening

Late today it was announced that Rev. Homer Davis, scheduled to occupy the pulpit at the Central Presbyterian church on Sunday evening, will be unable to meet the engagement. Rev. P. H. Johnston of Erie, another visiting Methodist minister, here attending the conference, will be the speaker.

CONFERENCE WILL END ON MONDAY

form during the morning session were two brothers, Rev. C. H. Frampton, Grove City, and W. E. Frampton, Big Run, Pa., who, Presiding Bishop James H. Straughlin, told the delegates, have each spent 52 years in the statistician's department. For a number of years Rev. C. H. Frampton served as conference statistician.

Rev. Thomas H. Johnson, pastor of the Tenth Street Methodist church, Erie, conducting morning devotions today, declared that "before men and women can maintain spiritual joy, they must receive it."

Speaking before last night's Erie Conference Laymen's dinner, attended by 315 laymen and their wives, Dr. W. E. Crossland, pastor of the Asbury-First Methodist church, Rochester, N. Y., discussing "For A Day Like This," asserted that "the dictators have out-worked, out-thought and out-planned their democratic neighbors" and he said that "any day that Hitler dies will be a holiday."

The laymen's banquet, high spot of the conference's social schedule, was presided over by Blaine H. Gifford, Erie insurance man.

Sunday will bring religious services with many of the visiting Methodist churchmen occupying local pulpits.

Friday Evening

"Christian Education" was the theme discussed before the conference last night by Dr. Fred G. Holmway, former president of the Western Maryland Theological seminary at Westminster, Md. The Brahms' choruses of New Castle, directed by David Rees, sang at the service. Julia Zimmerman was the accompanist.

Rev. Frank S. McKnight, pastor of the Westfield, N. Y., Methodist church, presided.

Friday evening brought the annual dinner for retired Erie conference ministers and their wives, given personally by Dr. and Mrs. William H. Crawford of Meadville and Keystone Heights, Pa. Dr. Crawford is president emeritus of Allegheny college.

At noon today, in First Christian church, wives of the conference ministers enjoyed luncheon together.

This afternoon the corporate body of the Ida M. Cribbs home, Methodist institution, will convene for its annual session.

Youth Night

Tonight Bishop Straughlin will deliver the principal address on a "Youth Night" topic. Presiding will be Miss Evelyn Brown.

Sunday program will be given over to worship with the conference love feast, to be led by Rev. Homer B. Davis, former pastor of Epworth Methodist church, scheduled as the opener at 9:30.

Public worship, with Bishop Straughlin preaching will be at 10:45, with music by the First Methodist choir. Ordination services, also conducted by the bishop, will be at 3. The church quartet will sing.

Sunday Evening Speaker

Dr. Ralph E. Diffendorfer, New York, executive secretary of the Division of Foreign Missions of the Methodist church, will be the guest speaker at the main Sunday evening service.

During Friday's afternoon session conference formally retired four of its ministers who have served the church for years. They were J. E. Roberts, Jamestown, N. Y., R. A. Thompson, Mt. Jewett, S. M. Cousins, Skysville, and A. L. Pardee, Erie's Lawrence Park church.

The conference at the same time voted to raise the minimum salary of a conference supply pastor to $1,000 and a home. Last year the salary minimum was $900. The minimum for a conference member was also boosted to $1,200 and a home.

Ministerial Trials

The trial admission into the ministry of 12 young men was also announced to the conference, and a short time after admitting them approved a move which sets requirements of four years in college and one year in ministry for all entering on trial. Exceptions, it was explained, will require a three-fourths vote of the conference.

Trial admission was granted these 12:

Milo Connie, Conneautville; Gordon Curty and George Myers, Cambridge Springs; Walter Gilliland, Grove City; Paul Hogg, Pleasantville; Clair Heitzentrater, Valley; Carl Reppert, Edinboro; Howard Smith and John Lavelly, Meadville; John Fetzer, Sligo; Paul Leyda, Marienville, and J. Norman Holden, Diamond.

Young John Lavelly thereby becomes a third generation Methodist minister, his father and grandfather having been clergymen.

Admitted to full membership in the conference were Harold Welter, Falls Creek; Paul R. Smith, Fredonia, James Cousin, New Castle; Henry Beatty, Grove City, and Bernard Howe, Fredonia.

probably will be about Nov. 15 before the first draftees numbering about 75,000 are called to service.

Final congressional approval came when the house adopted the conference report on the measure. An hour earlier the senate also had approved the port 47 to 25.

Action on the conference report, which adjusted differences between senate and house, was delayed last night by a senate revolt over modification of the draft industry amendment.

As finally approved the provision permits the government to take over and operate plants needed for national defense, paying fair rental value. The power limited to May 15, 1945, the expiration date of the draft act.

new neighborhood not so long ago and after a few hours was successfully coaxed to the shoulder of its mistress, as reported by the canary. The condition is serious, and to keep him warm and snug, to doctor him up, the canary has been placed in the bunwarmer, which has been lined with cloth, and made like a nest. The even heat temperature has made "Petie" comfortable, and his recovery is anticipated.

Harry M. Bannon, of Winter avenue, brought a huge puff-ball mushroom to the office of The News this morning, which measured 35 by 36 1/2 inches, and weighed four and a half pounds. It was found by Charles Houk, of R. F. D. No. 2, Wampum, near his home at Newport.

Some auto drivers are exceedingly unthoughtful or careless. Last night traffic on the Highland avenue car line was tied up for a time about 7:30 o'clock, because some driver parked a car along the street, locked it and left, and the car was out in the street so far that the street car could not pass it. Traffic was held up until the driver was located and moved the car. This condition is noted frequently by patrons of the Highland car line.

MISSIONARY TEA AT CENTRAL CHURCH

Associates of all the women's missionary societies of the Central Presbyterian church, along with their friends, assembled in the church Friday afternoon for a tea, honoring Mrs. Harry Rhodes, a returned missionary from Chosen.

Mrs. Robert M. Patterson led the group in an enlightening religious period, after which Mrs. Oscar Rhodes introduced her sister-in-law, the guest of honor, who was attired in a typical Chosen costume, which is a gift of the choir of the mission which she directs. In a most entertaining manner, the honored guest told of her work among the Koreans, their clothing, costume, foods and speech.

Mrs. Paul L. Friend, accompanied at the piano by Miss Helen Ewing, contributed several lovely vocal selections, appropriate to the event.

Tea and light cakes were served at tables prettily arranged with flowers. Hostesses were Mrs. Wylie Brewster and Mrs. George McClelland. Mrs. Jessie Camblin and Mrs. Frank Sherger had charge of arrangements. Assisting hostesses were Mrs. Clifford Probst, Mrs. Glenn Anderson, Mrs. Helen Miller, Mrs. Roland Peden, Mrs. John Kennedy and Blanche Bright.

DOROTHY STICKLE WEDS CLARENCE LUSK

One of the loveliest late summer weddings was performed Friday evening in the Epworth church at 7:30 o'clock, uniting in marriage Miss Dorothy Phyllis Stickle of Court street, and Clarence Loyal Lusk, son of Mr. and Mrs. A. C. Lusk, of 112 West Leasure avenue.

Rev. William A. Thornion, pastor of the church, officiated at the ceremony, using the single ring service, in the presence of a few friends.

For her marriage the bride wore a green traveling suit, with brown and white accessories. Her shoulder corsage was of white roses.

Miss Benetta Perry of East New Castle, as maid of honor, was attired in a maroon traveling suit with matching accessories and a shoulder corsage of pink roses. Paul Lusk, brother of the groom, was the best man.

Mrs. A. Walter, grandmother of the bride, wore a black street length dress on this occasion, and Mrs. Lusk, mother of the bridegroom, chose a rose colored dress with black accessories.

Following the ceremony a congratulatory period was held in the annex of the church, and later Mr. and Mrs. Lusk departed on a wedding trip through the East.

Upon their return in a week, they will make their residence at 112 West Leasure avenue. Mr. Lusk is a carpenter by trade, being employed in his father's business.

GIANNONE-COGNO WEDDING TODAY

A pretty wedding, marked with simplicity, was solemnized at 10 o'clock September 7, when Miss Nina Giannone, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Vincent Giannone of Croton avenue, became the bride of Carmen Cogno, son of Mr. and Mrs. James of Hamilton avenue, Farrell, Pa.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride was lovely in white faille taffeta and carried a bouquet of lilies and lilies of the valley.

Miss Theresa Giannone, sister of the bride, and Carl Cagno, brother of the groom, were their only attendants.

Following the ceremony a wedding dinner was served in the bride's home, where the marriage took place, and a reception followed the dinner.

For their wedding trip the couple departed for New York and Canada.

The bride attended the local high school and is an employee of the National Parks company. The groom attended the Farrell high school and is affiliated with the Carnegie-Illinois Steel corporation at Farrell.

England-Herchenroether Wedding In College Chapel

Westminster chapel was the scene this afternoon of a lovely wedding ceremony which culminated in a college romance, the principals being Miss Margaret Allene England, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. C. M. England, of 236 Edgewood avenue, and George Herchenroether, son of Mr. and Mrs. Henry C. Herchenroether, of 1406 Terman avenue, North Side, Pittsburgh, both graduates of Westminster college.

In the presence of upwards of 300 guests, the vows were pledged before the chapel altar, embanked in an abundance of white flowers, concealing the chancel, and with only a touch of green in branching candelabrum. Amidst this setting Dr. Robert Galbreath, president of Westminster college, read the service, using the single ring, at 2:30 o'clock.

Preceding the ceremony a half hour program of nuptial music was contributed by Organist Clayton Taylor of Warren, Pa., and a member of the bride's graduating class. He added further to the impressiveness of the occasion with appropriate selections, and accompanied as guest soloist Miss Jean Martin of Alliquippa. She sang beautifully "Through the Years" and "Because."

Entering on the arm of her father, C. M. England, who gave her in marriage, the bride was the picture of loveliness, at once girlish and dignified, in her tailored white taffeta wedding gown, made toe length, with veil falling almost to fingertip length. It was caught with a band of seed pearl trimming, which was used on the wedding gown of her mother-in-law. Her arm bouquet was a mixture of white flowers, caught with matching white ribbon streamers.

Miss Marian Igo of Youngstown and New Wilmington, a roommate of the bride in her sophomore year, was maid of honor, and she wore a dusty pink taffeta gown, toe length, which, too, was in keeping with the plain tailored motif in style. She carried pink roses, and in her hair were two bows of white lace. As bridesmaids were Miss Jean McCully of Mt. Lebanon, roommate of the bride her senior year at college, Jean Cartwright of New Castle, Jean Snow of Franklin and Carol Graham of Emblenton. They completed the picture, attired in gowns of poudre blue taffeta, made identical to that worn by the maid of honor, and carried arm clusters of yellow roses. Bows of lace also were worn in their hair.

The mother of the bride was attired in blue crepe with black accessories, and her corsage was of orchids. Mrs. Herchenroether, mother of the groom, was in white.

Guests were present at the wedding from Lisbon, O., Ravenna, O., New Castle, Niles, O., Massillon, O., Youngstown, O., Grove City, Franklin, Emblenton, Beaver, McKeesport and Cambridge Springs.

In the presence of a few friends and relatives, Rev. Grey officiated using the single ring service.

The bride was attired in an Olympian blue chiffon velvet street length dress, with navy accessories and a shoulder bouquet of pink roses and white pompons.

Miss Helen Weisz, sister of the bride, was her only attendant and she wore a street length dress of poudre blue wool, with navy accessories. Robert Hogue, brother of the groom, served as best man.

The bride is a graduate of Princeton high school in the class of 1938. Immediately following the ceremony Mr. and Mrs. Hogue departed on a short wedding trip to Niagara Falls and other points of interest.

Upon their return they will reside at the home of the bridegroom's parents, for the present time.

Credit for the affair goes to Mrs. R. E. Murland, Mrs. James Fullerton, Mrs. Ivan Henderson, and Mrs. A. G. Snyder.

Mrs. Julian Miller of New Castle, Mrs. Miles of Poland, and Kenneth Gwin of the Harbor, served also as judges at this successful event.

CAMPAIGN UNDER WAY

WENDELL L. WILLKIE has started on a 7,200-mile campaign tour that will take him through 18 states from Indiana to the Pacific Coast. These states have 187 electoral votes out of a total of 531 in the Electoral College. The Republican candidate is scheduled to make appearances in 48 cities and towns ranging from Portland, Oregon, to Amarillo, Texas.

Fifty reporters are aboard Mr. Willkie's train. This is said to be the largest number of newspapermen ever to start on a campaign trip of a Presidential candidate.

There can be no doubt of the keen public interest in Mr. Willkie and of the general eagerness with which the public is following the development of his campaign. Judging from what he said to reporters at Rushville, Mr. Willkie has no intention of attempting to startle the nation with a few nationwide broadcasts, nor to permit his assistants to "master-mind" his campaign for him. He wants to meet the largest possible number of voters face-to-face, to tell them his views in plain language and to be himself.

To be oneself in a Presidential campaign with all the variegated pressures, conflicting advice and general pulling and hauling to which a candidate is exposed is not the easiest of accomplishments. Mr. Willkie's course since his nomination suggests that he is able to take care of himself. Frankness and courage are two of his outstanding characteristics, which Mr. Willkie will have lots of chance to demonstrate during his first campaign swing.

ENTER KING FOOTBALL

In schools and colleges throughout the land football squads have taken the field in keen anticipation of successful gridiron seasons for literally hundreds of Alma Maters. The thud of the pigskin is definitely in the air. Before long each Saturday's "crocodile" contests will be played for the enjoyment of the multitude.

To be sure, there's that intervening matter of baseball's World Series. And, with the American League promising a photo finish, there will be no dearth of popular interest in the diamond finale.

But football can take it without suffering appreciably. When cool, crisp days return and the bite of frost looms as something less than a remote possibility, the interscholastic and intercollegiate gridirons of America cannot be denied a lion's share of athletic enthusiasm.

A PLANE SERVICE

Emphasizing the fact that in wartime the function of the plane is not wholly on the side of destruction is the current news that the Yankee Clipper carried without charge two hundred and twenty-one pounds of typhoid serum to combat that fever which has broken out in unoccupied France.

This shipment will immunize 8,000 and is the first of three such shipments, the Red Cross request from France being for enough to immunize 24,000 persons. On the same plane Romain Gadola, returning home to France, carried 150 pounds of cod liver oil and a quantity of iodine crystals to meet the inroads of malnutrition among French children.

While the airplane is being put to purposes by the barbarous totalitarian countries certainly never dreamed of by its inventors, occasionally it does engage in a mission that is a credit to civilization.

FIRE-FIGHTING AT ITS WORST

Firemen, the world over, must be pretty much the same. Winston Churchill has added up something about them which many people have been sensing ever since the Nazi bombers began starting huge fires all about London.

He said: "I express my admiration for the exemplary manner in which all the air raid precaution services of London are being discharged, especially the fire brigades, whose work has been so heavy and also dangerous."

Any time fire apparatus rolls there is danger. Figure what it means for firemen to have dozens of fires going at once with consequently slimmer forces at each. They have to speed through darkened streets that are often pitted with shell holes.

They may fight for hours to get a fire under control with a time bomb lurking nearby. And they are going at this sort of thing night and day with little or no rest.

Some day we may get a fuller understanding of what it means to be a firefighter in a situation like this. As it is we have a feeling that Mr. Churchill's earnest comment may be extremely conservative.

BACK TO THE CAVES

Men's first dwellings were caves and maybe they will end where they began. The possibility looks less fanciful in the glare of the tremendous air bombardments in London which send the inhabitants of the world's greatest and proudest city scurrying underground.

Those bomb-proof shelters are artificial, but caves none the less. They spread as the intensity of the air assault grows, and already accommodate millions in the metropolis and other English cities. Reports say the people lately have been spending one-third of their time, or more, underground. And it is not a pleasant life for men, women and children used to the air and sun and cleanliness and green things growing.

Such residences may be rendered more pleasant in time, as civilized man gets used to the idea and puts his science and art seriously to work on the problem. They may be well lighted and ventilated and made pleasant in various ways. And other communities, nations and continents, even here in free America, may yet come to face the problem and give it our best thought.

Rust-proof steel perhaps will make the best material, but concrete does very well. We could utilize our limestone caverns for the purpose, if they were more strategically located.

On the whole, however, it may be more reasonable to suppress the modern cave men who drive other tribes to such resorts.

The Parent Problem

By Garry C. Myers, Ph. D.

SANDMAN CURE FOR JITTERS

In my earnest appeals to make this column useful to my readers, nothing heartens me so much as the letters I receive which give evidence that something I wrote here, or something I wrote in a personal answer to a letter from a reader, actually worked.

From a mother whose husband is a public school administrator with considerable responsibility, has come the following:

"My Dear Dr. Myers: Perhaps you will recall that I wrote you in the late summer of 1939, asking you to help on some problem I have in mind to write you long before and thank you for your assistance. I wanted to be sure that your suggestions were actually working, and now, after almost six months, I can enthusiastically say they are!

"My children are a girl, who will be six in June, and a boy, who will be two in May. They have both profited by your sound and practical advice to me and I shall ever be grateful. I felt almost at the end of my rope when I wrote you, but everything has worked out in very fine shape.

The Matter Of Sleep

"I was reading your article in last night's paper about the restless nervous child whose parents say 'requires less sleep than most children.' Both of my children are the nervous type, but thanks to you and your suggestions, they have excellent sleeping habits now, and have lost the peevishness that had accompanied their nervous energy before. The younger sleeps from twelve to thirteen hours at night, with a two hour nap in the daytime, and the older sleeps about eleven and a half or twelve hours at night. And the fact that they are both in bed by seven leaving a quiet house and a peaceful evening has had a decided effect on the serenity of their mother. I shall always be thankful to you for your help at a time when I was in need of such sound advice.

P. S. Your suggestion that the older child be granted privileges not given the younger has worked out very well. She has assumed her responsibilities and felt she has earned her privileges. It's a grand scheme!"

Advice Easy To Give

Obviously this letter is more of a compliment to the mother who wrote it than to me. Advice is relatively easy to give even good advice. To carry it out and get desired results is what takes effort and will power. I know for I am a parent myself. Therefore, whether it's my advice in this column, or special advice I send you in reply to your letters, which you try to follow but fail, please don't be too hard on yourself, and maybe you will also not be very hard on me.

You may have a chart of desirable hours of sleep at various ages by writing me at 235 East 45th St., New York City, enclosing a self-addressed, stamped envelope.

Solving Parent Problems

Q. Should "finders be keepers?"
A. No. When your little child brings home a toy he says he has found, accept his statement that he found it, but tell him "We must try to find the owner." Let him see you put up a sign in front of the house, about it. Then if no one comes to claim it, in due time, send the toy to a child welfare organization. If it is money, he finds, have him put it in a fund for relief, church or missions. Under no conditions should he use what he has found—not if you want this child to acquire good attitudes toward the possessions of others.

Q. What is a good way to prevent stubbornness from developing in the child from three to six?

A. Except for routines, avoid commanding the child, therefore, avoid punishing him to make him do things. Limit punishments to keeping him from doing a few forbidden things. Trust to requests, patience and your genius at winning his cooperation.

The World AND THE Mud Puddles

PASS TO THE DOGHOUSE

There are things in plenty—too many, in fact—that may mar conjugal felicity and get a mere husband pitched far back into the doghouse. Failing to notice a new dress or a new something is bad. Carrying a letter around in the pocket for a week after it has been given out to be mailed is bad. Letting the heater run until steam comes puffing out the opened faucets is not good. Bureau drawers left partly open are liable to create recriminations and so it goes.

Presumably, though, the all-time doghouse record has just been made by a married gentleman of Hull, Massachusetts. He and his wife went down to Nantasket Beach and in some way became separated. In a short time he saw her floating (or said he did) among the waves off shore, and screamed for the life guards to rescue her. The gallant guards rushed in, retrieved a beer keg and rolled it out on the sands just as the wife arrived from another quarter of the beach. Somebody let her know the error that had been made, and on what happened next, it is no doubt best to draw the curtain. This man will have to live a long time before he will be permitted to forget that incident—if ever.

The exasperatingly insufficient press services failed utterly to indicate whether the man's mistake was natural or inspired by spite, but there are bounds, we suppose, beyond which even press services do not dare go.

EPH WORTLE'S FAMOUS TALKING SCARECROW IS A GREAT HELP TO MOTHERS OF SMALL CHILDREN

HINTS AND DINTS

Sun sets tonight 6:12. Sun rises tomorrow 5:40.

We have noticed that those railroad porters seem to be pleased when they are tipped and the tipper does not take their receipt. Under the new rules they have to turn in their tips and only get part of the money they take in.

Most of us in this generation are hoping that the coming generation can pull through the present confusion.

"How do you tell when your husband is lying?" one woman asked another. "If he is moving his lips, he is," replied the image of his heart.

HINTS AND DINTS MAN'S PICKLE RECIPE

Quite a few people have asked us for our old time pickle recipe. If you like pickles follow the recipe to the letter and you will have real pickles. Take as many cucumbers, large and small and wash them of course. Put them in a jar or crock. Take a cupful of rock salt to every half gallon of vinegar. Weaken the vinegar to your taste as regular strong vinegar may not suit you. Have enough of the vinegar to cover the pickles. The small pickles will be ready for use the next day. These pickles will not keep more than a week or so and are not for winter use. Nothing but the salt and vinegar, remember.

Mr. Willkie has the support of men in this country who favor making our country what it should be and they will do it if they get the chance.

"We've been married 40 years," a man said. "But I've never slapped my wife and she's never slapped me. However, both of us have been tempted to do some slapping."

LONG, LONG AGO

What has become of the old-fashioned youth who was described as "an industrious young man of exemplary habits?"

A barber said: "It seems I have spent my whole life getting out of one scrape into another."

Some people are not liars. They just don't give the things they talk about enough of the right kind of thought.

WARNING

For every little snow-white lie That oozes out of you You're sure to need at least two more To make that one seem true.

The first will come so easily That you will scarcely dream You'll need two more to cover it— And carry on your scheme.

But soon you'll find you need four more To hide that second two; And 'fore you know it, telling lies Will be 'bout all you'll do.

So when you plan to tell a fib Think up a million more; Because before you're through with it You'll need good lies galore!

"I hear your son is getting along well." "Yes, he is. Four years ago he wore my clothes and now I wear his."

APPROPRIATE

It was masquerade night at the nudist camp, and the ladies were talking over the costume question.

"Whatever shall I do as?" demanded one corpulent damsel.

"With those varicose veins of yours you should go as a road map."

The worst pun we have heard so far during the campaign is "To Ellwood Roosevelt."

Government officials tell that more money was in circulation in August, this year, than for some time. They must have meant in Washington.

Good Taste

By B. & P. & P. & P.

"My two girl cousins are pretty and yet are wallflowers at dances; and as a consequence make catty remarks about all of the men who dance with me and overlook them. Please suggest a cure for this pernicious habit."—Trene.

Answer: I think you have diagnosed your cousins' symptoms in reverse and that they are wallflowers rather than being catty as a result of being wallflowers. The popular girl who really holds her men friends refuses to listen to or utter unpleasant things about other people. When you mention to her another girl's faults she will smile and reply: "But, really, don't you think that, after all, she is a good egg?" Then, if she can, she will tell you something very complimentary about the girl attacked, or relate some incident very much to her credit. During a party, this type of girl never sits alone against the wall. Others of her own as well as of the opposite sex wish to be with her. And she wants to talk with them, laugh with them. She wants to hear their opinions and they solicit hers because they are always free from bitterness, criticism or pessimism. Even if this type of girl is unhappy, she does not, let others know it. She is wanted everywhere—is a social favorite.

The chaps who are making the draft laws in Washington are not the ones who will be drafted for war.

We were surprised somewhat when we saw this sign in a tavern. "Only low conversation allowed here." Low standard!

It is claimed that chestnut trees can be raised again in Western Pennsylvania. The blight killed most of them some years ago. However, we still have lots of old chestnuts around.

An East Side inventor has outburied Burbank. He crossed one of those automatic toasters and a coffee percolator, so now the coffee leaps right into the cup and the toast jumps onto the plate.

A little girl was asked if her brother, who was about old enough to have a driver's license, was allowed to take the car out alone. "Oh, no," she said. "He never goes alone. He always takes a girl."

They had everything packed for the trip and it looked like they might have to make pretty close connections with the train.

"Run down and hold the train a few moments, and I'll be right along," said the wife.

When she reached the depot she saw a bedraggled looking creature coming toward her. She could hardly recognize her husband. "Dora," he cried. "I did my darnedest to hold that train but it out-pulled me."

TO A HIGHWAY COP—UNSPOKEN

All right all right, I heard your siren's wail. I'm pulling to the curb. Don't pull that stale.

Old gag, "D'ya think you're going to a fire?" No need to go, I'm burning up with ire.

My driver's license? Here, I know you nurse. The hope I'll gasp: "It's in my other purse."

Just check me over; white with eyes of blue.

My height and weight and age, what's that to you?

I'll bet at home you are a hen-pecked spouse.

You dare not say a word in your own house.

But on the road, O me, revenge is sweet.

You'll make some other female feel the heat.

A ticket? Thanks, I'll bet you never knew.

That mentally, I thumbed my nose at you.

"Can you describe the man who hit you and gave you a pair of black eyes, a police officer asked a man who had complained and wanted his assistant arrested. "Describe him? That's exactly what I was doing when he blacked my eyes."

To predict a long cold winter might hit it about right.

Fly's don't stand cold weather very well. That's good. It's bad enough to have them around in warm weather.

It is stated that chestnut trees can be raised again in Western Pennsylvania. The blight killed most of them some years ago. However, we still have lots of old chestnuts around.

"Have you heard the news?" cried a North Hill girl. "Dot is just back from her honeymoon and her husband had $150 left when he came back." "Hm," remarked the other girl. "How did that happen?"

"Stop it," says Washington to Japan. Meanwhile we provide the fuel oil, ferro-alloys, chemicals and copper that enable her to keep doing it.

What's What At A Glance

Canada Is Looking Forward Into Future
Wants Its Independence If Britain Loses
Various Aspects Of Situation Discussed

By CHARLES P. STEWART
Central Press Columnist

WASHINGTON, Sept. 14.—Of course Mayor Fiorello H. LaGuardia of New York is the essence of the Yankee-Canadian joint commission which is fixing up that mutually defensive compact between Uncle Samuel and Our Lady of the Snows. Not that the other commissioners aren't all right, but Fiorello can no more be anything but the real hub of any activity he's involved in than sparks can fly downward.

In principle the Yankee-Canadian dicker is easy enough to arrange, for both sides want it. There are some details, however, which require a certain amount of fixing.

On the one hand, the Canadians don't want to be assimilated into the United States, regardless of what may happen to the British empire. On the other hand, a Yankee who has given the subject due consideration doesn't altogether like the idea of assimilating them literally.

Canada Prefers Independence

There's been talk to the effect that, should Germany over-run the British Isles, the next step would be the transfer of the present London government to Ottawa, Canada to be the imperial hub thenceforward.

Canadians, the Yankee members of the joint commission now discover, don't favor this arrangement. They say they'll always be glad to entertain British royalty and folk like Winston Churchill and others as refugees, but they absolutely veto the notion of turning over Canada's government to them. Yet, unless they do so, they don't see how Ottawa could become imperial headquarters.

Canada, to be sure, has a governor general, appointed from London, but he hasn't a particle of authority. The actual head of the Canadian government is its prime minister chosen by the majority party in the Ottawa house of commons. In the event of the collapse of the empire, now centered in London, the Canadians' scheme is to go it alone thereafter, independently de jure as well as de facto.

Naturally the Canadians consider themselves even nominally subject to a German-ruled London. Neither would they care to yield control to a set of refugees from the original home land. They wouldn't like to be federally dictated to from Washington, either.

Let 'Em Go It Alone

The only alternative would appear to be complete Canadian independence.

But the Canadians do realize that they imperatively need an airtight alliance with Uncle Samuel.

Well, they know they can get it, because it also is vital to Sammy.

Australia, for instance, is different. Let the empire blow up and the Australians will be left at the end of a long limb.

The United States probably wouldn't stand in differently, illustratively, by a Japanese grab of Australia. Still even that wouldn't hit us as hard and immediately as an overseas swipe at Canada. So the Australians might be disposed to accept whatever terms we offered 'em.

The Canadians, though, are quite aware that we've got to protect them anyway.

Assimilation Can Be Overdone

As previously remarked, maybe there's Yankee objection to assimilating the Canadians over-literally.

If we take 'em in, we'll have to take 'em in as states or territories.

Now would we enjoy having the states of Quebec or Ontario sending senators and representatives to congress in Washington? And suppose a Quebecer or an Ontarian were to become a presidential aspirant?

Pan American Union

And here's another thing: We have a Pan American Union. It includes all of the new world's republics. Canada never has belonged to it, for it isn't a republic.

I'll take Brazil to draw a comparison, for Brazil's our best friend in the western hemisphere.

Without any assimilation of the Brazilians we can make a fine alliance with 'em, since all our interests, jointly are new worldly. It's the same with the rest of the western hemispherical republics. Some of them don't like us as well as the Brazilians do but at least none of them are governmentally tied by the lee to any overseas power.

Canada, a presidential aspirant, has been tied to England, always has been tied to England.

Hence, it's been impossible to class the Canucks (nominally Britons) as Pan Americans.

Maybe we can if the British empire busts up.

FRIENDSHIP'S PROBLEM

What to do when comrades err?

What to say when friendship strays?

How to counsel him or her Whom we can no longer praise? How from bitterness and shame One that's falling to reclaim?

How to know what words to use? If to speak or to refrain? How the proper hour to choose? Will the wish to help be vain? Will we stay with us to hear Or ask why we interfere?

Is it friendship to be still Seeing danger drawing nigh? When the throng is speaking ill Should a friend make no reply? Seeing worth about to stray Must we always silent stay?

These are questions which arise Many times a lifetime through And the wisest of the wise Seldom knows what's best to do Since so few the difference sense Twixt good will and impudence.

DAILY DOZEN

(From the Medical Society of the State of Pennsylvania)

As summer wanes, come the cold months—and pneumonia. The majority of cases of pneumonia occur in the winter months. About 6,000 Pennsylvanians die each year of this dread disease.

Pneumonia is an inflammation of the lung.

It is caused by one of many types of bacteria.

In treatment, it is important to know which type was the cause.

Certain serums are specific for certain types of the disease.

A neglected common cold often results in fatal pneumonia.

A patient's lowered resistance encourages the disease.

New serum and drug therapy has reduced pneumonia deaths.

Prompt treatment with modern methods are needed in such cases. Pennsylvania is in the pneumonia belt—beware the common cold.

Dr. Daffoe's Column On The Quintuplets And The Care Of Your Children

(Copyright, 1940, King Features Syndicate, Inc.)

SHOULD TONSILS COME OUT?

There has been a great deal of controversy concerning the function of the tonsil in the human throat and even now medical men do not agree upon it entirely. It would appear that the role of the tonsil is to reduce infection in the throat; to fight it before it can spread elsewhere. Its tissue is composed of a tiny, round cells that collect normally in the presence of an infection. These cells have the ability to fight infection by absorption and destruction of bacteria. As long as the tonsil fulfills this role, it is a valuable member of the body defenses. The trouble is that after having been involved in a few severe infections of the body by infections, the tonsil itself often becomes diseased and, instead of helping combat infection as it should, it actually becomes a focus for it.

If after examining your child's tonsils your physician decides they must come out, then take his word for it. If he finds the tonsils are not diseased and says they don't need to come out, then you don't need to worry over whether your child should have his tonsils removed.

The Dionne Quintuplets had their tonsils out nearly two years ago. Their tonsils were in exceptionally bad shape because they were harboring germs of the dread streptococcus.

Infected tonsils may become so enlarged when diseased they fill up the throat so that the child has difficulty eating and even breathing. When the surgeon started to work on Marie's throat, he turned to me and said: "I don't know how she managed to swallow anything."

A few weeks ago a New York physician expressed surprise that "such perfectly reared children as the Dionne Quintuplets should all at the same time have tonsils so diseased that they had to be removed," and the Journal of the American Medical Association asked me to reply to him.

As for the surprise expressed at the infection appearing in all five at the same time, I find that difficult to understand. I, on the contrary, would have been surprised if the infection had occurred only in part of the set. This is an identical set living in an identical environment. The appearance of a disorder in one individual and its failure to appear in others when no differences of heredity or environment exist would be surprising indeed to me.

As for the appearance of diseased tonsils in these children, I have no excuse to offer. It is well known that diseased tonsils occur in children of the best homes as well as those of the worst. We believe that care that has been given to these children is the best possible care we could have given them. These children are subject to outside sources of infection a great deal more than the public realizes, despite our attempts to protect them.

Willkie Blasts Indispensable Man Political Bunk

"Roosevelt One Of Four In World Who Thinks He Is Indispensable"

By WALTER KIERNAN
International News Service Staff Correspondent

ABROAD WILLKIE SPECIAL EN ROUTE WEST, Sept. 14.—Wendell Willkie, Republican candidate for president, today blasted President Roosevelt with Hitler, Mussolini and Stalin as the "four men in the world today who think they are indispensable."

Willkie made his statement during a brief appearance on the rear platform of his campaign special train at Joliet, Ill. It was his first stop outside of Chicago, where yesterday he was given a tremendous ovation at the outset of his important western campaign swing.

Several thousand persons crowded around the train at Joliet, many carrying banners and placards.

Willkie, still hoarse from his strenuous day of campaigning in Chicago yesterday, said: "New technique in campaigning has been developed. My opponent, who after all is nothing but a candidate for public office is following the theory of the indispensable man."

"There are four men in the world today who think they are indispensable—Hitler, Mussolini, Stalin and now the president."

"I don't happen to think so, and I'm going to say so from platforms for the next month. I think it's the bunk."

NEW CASTLE AND BUTLER BATTLE TO TIE 6-6

Both Teams Score Result Of Passes

New Castle High Extended To Tie Butler High Here Friday Night; Al Buccini Does Fine Punting; Butler Scores With Less Than Two Minutes Of Game Left To Play; Tie May Eliminate Both Teams From Class AA Title Hopes; Crowd Of About 8,000 Witnesses Game.

PUTTING on what is commonly referred to as a "Garrison Finish" a determined Butler High football team deadlocked New Castle High "Hurricane" here last night at Taggart Stadium before a crowd of close to 8,000 fans. The score was 6-6.

Both teams scored as a result of forward passes in one of the wildest and most football games played here in many a year. It was New Castle's game until the dying moments of the battle, and then the Butler Golden Tornado suddenly came to life and aided by penalties had the ball in scoring position, a quick pass, Mintz to Pafrath with only a minute or so left produced the touchdown that gave Butler its draw with the New Castle team.

The tie game about eliminates both teams from further consideration in the Class AA league. The contest last night was one of the most thrilling that has been staged here in many a year. At the finish the fans were as breathless as the players. There was plenty of action every minute. The first and second periods were rather tame. Neither team could get in scoring position. It was a battle between two well balanced teams.

Lee Nice Passer
One of the best plays of the earlier stages of the game was a pass from Lee to Parou, that was good for 19 yards in the first period putting New Castle on the Butler 32 yard line. The end of the first period found New Castle on their own 33 yard line.

At the end of the second half New Castle had the ball on the Butler 40 yard line. The teams battled mostly in the center of the field. Buccini and Zaccari did the kicking for their respective teams and the former had the better of the engagement.

Roberts Scores On Pass
New Castle scored soon after the third period began. Burris kicked off to Butler to start the second half with Innanotti taking the kick and returning it back 10 yards to the Butler 15.

Racely picked up a couple of yards at tackle for Butler. Innanotti lost three yards. Racely punted to New Castle out of bounds on the Butler 29 yard line.

Roberts on the first play after New Castle got the ball, made five through the line. Ciazza made one more yard, the New Castle team had the ball on the Butler 23 yard line. Buccini stepped back on the next play as if to kick and instead rifled a clever pass to Larry Roberts to the five, and Roberts turned and fought his way to the goal line for the New Castle touchdown. Burris failed for the extra-point.

Following the New Castle touchdown Burris kicked off to Butler but the Soapsmen could not do much with the New Castle line. Lee intercepted a Butler pass on the New Castle 48 yard line, midway in the third period found Buccini kicking to Butler over the goal line and Butler getting the ball out on their own 20 yard line.

Score On Forward Pass
The fourth and final period opened with Mintz making six yards on two tries. Mintz made it first down for Butler on the Butler 30 yard line. Zaccari punted out of bounds on the New Castle 40, but New Castle drew a 15 yard penalty for holding and it was a first down for Butler on the Butler 47. Innanotti passed to Mintz for a four yard gain. Mintz tried another pass, but Ciaza knocked it down. Zaccari punted to the New Castle 25 yard line.

Three plays by New Castle failed to do much and Buccini kicked to Butler on the Butler 11-yard line. A beautiful 64-yard kick that had the Butlers befuddled. DeRose on the first play after the kick picked up 15 yards. Zaccari lost a yard. New Castle drew a 15-yard penalty for roughness. Butler soon had the ball in New Castle territory. New Castle drew a five-yard penalty for off-side, putting the ball on the New Castle 40.

Mintz tossed a pass to Pafrath for five yards to the New Castle 35-yard line. New Castle drew another 15 yards for roughness and this put the ball on the New Castle 20-yard line. DeRose tried the line and lost a yard. Mintz tossed a short pass to Racely and it was good for six yards. Mintz then knifed his way through for a first down on the New Castle 10-yard line. Mintz made five more yards at center. Mintz made another yard at center. Mintz again carried the ball and made three yards.

Butler drew a penalty for too many time outs. DeRose failed to gain. There was just a minute or two left to play. New Castle took the ball on downs on their own three-yard line. Buccini kicked out to the New Castle 43-yard line.

Mintz, on the first play after Butler got the ball, passed to Pafrath for a 23-yard gain, to the New Castle 20-yard line. On the next play with the game just about over Mintz again stepped back and hurled a pass to Pafrath and the Butler end was over the goal line for a touchdown that tied the game in knots. A bad pass from center prevented a Butler try for the extra point.

Butler kicked off to New Castle following the touchdown, but there was just seconds left to play and Buccini tried three passes in a row but could not complete any of them, being hurried too much.

Freddy McKee, the New Castle quarterback, handled the team in fine shape last night and while Freddy does not carry the ball, he does do a swell job of signal barking and blocking.

Two New Castle Grid Foes Lose

Mrs. Nolan Wins West Penn Title

Defeats Oakmont Country Club Player On Own Course To Retain Honor

ONE OF FOUR TO DUPLICATE FEAT

Mrs. Thomas E. Nolan, carrying the colors of the New Castle Field Club, retained her Western Pennsylvania Women's Golf Association championship, when she defeated Miss Katherine MacCloskey, of the Oakmont Country Club, two up, on the Oakmont Country Club course Friday afternoon.

Mrs. Nolan defeated a splendid field of women golfers from the Western Pennsylvania district to achieve this distinction. She was one up on Miss MacCloskey at the end of the first nine holes, and by the time the 14th hole had been reached had increased this lead to three up. Miss MacCloskey made a desperate effort with but four holes to play, winning two of the next three holes, but she lost the eighteenth and Mrs. Nolan was again champion by a two up margin.

Mrs. Nolan's feat in winning the title in two consecutive years, duplicates the achievement of but four other women golfers in the district who have held this honor for more than one successive year, while only six persons have held it twice in twenty years of play.

Par on the Oakmont course is 74. Mrs. Nolan turning in a card of 68, 44 on each nine.

HERE AND THERE IN SPORTS' LAND

From the 80's to the 40's is a long time. However, Harry Amberson, local artist, yet remembers of having played "hooky" from a Beaver Falls school to see the Great John L. (Sullivan) and Jake Kilrain go through in exhibition in that city. He recalls that both carried too much avoirdupois. Harry also recalls Elmer Grant, a Beaver Falls heavyweight, who, while not a topnotcher, fought some good fights, some of which were on Ohio river barges. Incidentally, he said that some of the fights in those days were in the Nonpareil A. C., where many New Castle boxers have appeared. There is a probability that the Nonpareil A. C. is one of the very few structures yet standing where fist fights were held for three score years.

Pittsburgh Steelers and the New York Giants will clash Sunday afternoon at Forbes Field, Pittsburgh. Patterson, of Baylor or Condit of Carnegie Tech will play left halfback for the Steelers or "Rooney" as Havey Boyle, Pittsburgh scribe has labelled the Pittsburgh aggregation.

With fall clothing already being inspected as to what the moths did during the summer months, the bowlers are preparing to tie to the alleys for their 1940-41 season.

Dayton defeated Akron 8 to 2 in the first of the seven games series for the M-A championship. Bessemer and Ellwood City will play the third of a five games series for the Lawrence county baseball championship today at Bessemer. Ellwood City has two holds on the flag now and if they win today they capture the bunting. At Wooster, Friday, Grace Grattan, Nefco Volo and Tony Guy split the 2:24 trot. Modern Maiden won the 2:27 pace in straight heats. In the 2:18 trot John Joseph won the second and third heats and the first went to Florence Victor.

Parkersburg, W. Va. Joe Hemsley, brother of the Cleveland backstop, Rolly, is catching in a local industrial league.

Fandom Awaits Monday Fights

Delarado And Klingensmith Hope To Win By Knockout Punch

FILIGENZI, LAZIER IN PRELIM BATTLES

Fistic fandom is preparing to flock to the Ted Delarado vs Marion Klingensmith battle in The Arena, Monday night, because both have promised the Jefferson A.C. promoters to try for a knockout the first of the scheduled eight bouts will begin at 8:30 p.m.

Delarado has fought here several times. He has waged a vicious, consistent battle each time. In his last appearance he knocked out Joe Provident, a highly reputable amateur of Pittsburgh in two stanzas.

It will be Klingensmith's initial bout here. Not so long ago he waded through the welterweights at McKeesport and when the tourney was over he stood out as welterweight champion of the meet.

Babe Krause, featherweight champion of the McKeesport tournament has agreed to take on Larry (Babe) Retardo of Ellwood City, one of the most promising of the younger crop of amateurs hereabouts.

Two local boxers will make their bow. They are Gido Filigenzi who will fight Jack Reta of Youngstown at 135 and Les Lazier who will team up with Tom Sadatore a 147 pounder of Warren, O.

Bell Vs. Jones
Tommy Bell, brother of Shelton, who is a cagey colored boxer, will take on Carl Jones of Vestaburg, a stablemate of Klingensmith and Tony Karkido, an experienced Youngstown lad will box Kid Halakie, also of Vestaburg, at 118.

Most of the 16 amateurs eliminated boxing from their training today because of the probability of injuring a hand or sustaining bruises that would impair their ability Monday night.

They'll do road work, shadow boxing and tag at weights Sunday and from then on rest until the bell calls them to the center of the ring at 8:30 p.m. Monday.

Comfortable Accommodations
Fans who have journeyed thither and yon during the summer to see bouts, pro and amateur, have come to the realization that whenever they walk into The Arena, one of the best fight palaces in this section, they are sure to see good battles.

The amateur boxing game as conducted here is on a high plane and people in all ranks of life, both male and female, have become regular patrons and enjoy amateur boxing. There are good seats each and every one which is close to the ring. The illumination is good and there are no delays between bouts. There are courteous and capable attendants and the shows are supervised by state and A. A. U. attaches. Regardless of weather conditions the first bell will sound at 8:30 p.m. with judges referee and other officials from this city.

Pitt's two first string centers this fall are professionally minded. Canonsburg Steve Sinco, No. 1 man is lefied for medicine, and his first lefied man, George Allhouse, will follow in the path of his father, a Pitt tackle in 1917-18, and now a dentist in Duquesne.

Notes clipped off the cuff... Youngstown East, New Castle's foe here next Friday, is singing the well known blues. Coach Dick Barrett has announced the loss of two bright prospects—Don Lightner and Barry McCulloch. Lightner is on the shelf for the whole season due to a knee injury while McCulloch, the speedy Negro back, has joined the C. C. C.

Local fans who watched Geneva and Youngstown collide came back loaded with flowery comments regarding Howard Currie and Archie Shoup, Jr. Currie, a 225-pound line product of Shenango Township High, was a tower of strength on Geneva's forward wall. Shoup, the ex-Bessemer jack-rabbit, glittered in the Ohio backfield.

Tony Pinter of Grove City, who is well known around the local diamond ballfield, has been sold to the Brooklyn Dodgers by Dallas of the Texas league. The neighboring pitcher paraded to the knoll several times before going to Dallas. Pinter and Fred Shaffer are close friends.

Bands Perform At Grid Battle

New Castle And Butler School Bands Feature Stadium Activities

It was a battle of music last night at Taggart stadium as well as on the football field. Butler high brought a band here that had but 35 or 40 pieces, but they put on a fine exhibition, as did the New Castle high band, of over 100 pieces led by Prof. Joe Replodge.

What is a football game without a lot of color and the two bands last night provided plenty of color. New Castle with its red and black uniforms and Butler attired in yellow and white.

During the intermission both bands paraded the field and went through their intricate drills, spelling out huge letters.

Butler was followed here by several hundred fans last night. It was a swell night for football. The fans saw a fine game.

Shenango High Cops '40 Opener

East New Castle Eleven Trips Evans City, 12-0, Friday Afternoon

(Special To The News)
EVANS CITY, Sept. 14.—Shenango Township High opened the 1940 football season by downing Evans City High, 12-0, Friday afternoon at Evans City.

In the opening period, Mike Stolica, left half, leaped in the air and intercepted an Evans City aerial. Snatching the pebble grained leather on his opponents' 35, Stolica torpedoed into paydirt. Shenango tried an unsuccessful line smash for the extra point.

Evans City was unable to solve Shenango's defense during most of the second period and was forced to resort to punting. The East New Castle eleven took command of the spheroid on their own 45.

With Stolica, R. Donley and Clark ripping off successive gains on punches through the line, the Nocera coached outfit reached the two-yard stripe. Denny's quick-pumping line thrust gave the localites their second touchdown. Cline's plunge through the line for the extra point failed.

The schoolboys played on even terms during most of the last half. At one point, however, Evans City reached Shenango's 5. The locals tightened and held. Denny booted out of danger.

Semansky, Druschel and Covert glittered on Shenango's line while Denny, Pete Moran and M. Stolica showed up well in the backfield. Shenango next plays at Marion Township near Evans City.

The lineup:
Shenango: L. E. ... Evans City

Student Section Being Watched

Annoyed by older boys sitting in the students' section at Taggart stadium, the directors of the New Castle school board have issued orders that any person found in the section who is not a student will be ejected from the stadium.

A. C. Hyde, dean of the directors on the Athletic Council, said: "Older boys are edging in and starting trouble and then the students get blamed for it. Orders have been issued to stop this sort of thing and we expect it to be done."

The name of Fritz Zivic is missing from the latest rankings posted by the National Boxing Association.

Billy Conn has a spottish record in New York. The Pittsburgh smoothie has crawled thru the ropes 10 times and has emerged victorious every time! Centenary is shielding something. The Gentlemen are practicing behind closed doors. They even have guards parading the various entrances.

Red Cross Will Handle Orders Of Government

Will Make Up Garments Under Apportionment Of $50,000,000 Fund

ASSIGN QUOTA TO CHAPTER HERE

With the recent appropriation by the United States government of $50,000,000 for war relief, the American Red Cross finds itself designated the official agency to handle this allotment. The Red Cross is not being given any cash. The government is purchasing materials at the lowest wholesale cost and giving these materials to the various chapters doing outstanding work in their production program, without any charge.

Mrs. John E. Elliott, chairman of volunteer service of the Lawrence county chapter of the American Red Cross, has been notified by Mrs. Dwight Davis, national director of volunteer service, the selection of the Lawrence county chapter as one of the units to carry on this assignment. The government's purchasing committee has acquired approximately eight million dollars of raw materials. This is being distributed through the national Red Cross office and the local chapter has received its first assignment, their quota being approximately 3,048 garments.

Many Women Working

After an active summer in which over 500 garments have been made and shipped, Mrs. Elliott called a meeting of Mrs. James Rhodes, chairman of production, and Mrs. Robert Garland, chairman of knitting, with Mrs. John C. Wajert, chairman of SS, Philip and James church and Falcon hall Polish women auxiliaries, assisted by the following women from the Falcon hall: Mrs. Josephine Kwolek, Mrs. Josephine Bocar, Mrs. Josephine Budzowski, Mrs. Hedwig Owoc and the following members from SS, Philip and James Auxiliary: Mrs.

Rose Owoc, Mrs. Mollie Duda and Mrs. John C. Wajert. The meeting was held in the chapter house and the entire committee feels it is possible for this quota to be completed by the designated date, December 31. The chapter is adding many new auxiliaries to the fine groups of volunteer workers in different sections of the county already functioning. Mrs. John Comstock has been named chairman of production in New Wilmington. Mrs. Allen Crowe and Mrs. Harold Dean of Ellwood City have recently completed their course in surgical dressings and will continue the work in Ellwood City with Mrs. David Cartwright chairman of knitting in Ellwood City and Mrs. L. E. Springer, general chairman of all Ellwood City activities. There are four thousand women in Lawrence county giving close to 240,000 hours of volunteer service monthly. The Lawrence county chapter has been advised that the chapter is leading all other chapters of its size in production work. Mrs. Elliott is hopeful of increasing the volunteers materially in the next few weeks.

Boy Scout Troops To Start Program

"Program Of Action," Adopted By Troops; Emergency Service Corps To Be Organized

Boy scouts, cubs, senior scouts and adult leaders are now embarking on an intensive program in an effort "to further strengthen and invigorate our democracy. A detailed 'program of action,' has been received by the Lawrence county council which has jurisdiction for the scout movement in Lawrence county, with districts in New Castle, Ellwood City, New Wilmington and Bessemer.

The program according to Dr. G. S. Bennett, council president of Lawrence county, involves the strengthening of every individual troop, cub pack and senior scouting unit in preparation for whatever service opportunities lie ahead. New groups will be organized, enabling more boys to become scouts and thus increasing the number of those trained for service. All troops are being urged to recruit to full strength of 32 scouts, and in some cases this will mean the addition of one or two trained adult leaders.

While scout training has always been aimed at preparing scouts to be participating citizens, equipped for effective service to their home community and the nation, whatever the occasion may be, new emphasis is being placed on the Emergency Service Corps. These are primarily groups of senior scouts in every part of the nation, trained and equipped for emergency service calls. The "program of action" calls for an intensive application of the normal training a boy receives as a scout, with emphasis on certain skills in the vigorous out-of-door programs of camping and hiking.

Membership in the Emergency Service Corps of the Boy Scouts of America, is limited to first class scouts 15 years of age or over, who have special examination tests. A careful physical examination is required of every member of the corps. Members of the Emergency Corps are to serve as instructors and technicians in various fields of emergency service in their respective troops and communities.

A very successful corps has been operating in Ellwood City for the past year and steps will be taken at the council executive board meeting, on September 23, to organize similar units in each of the other districts.

Entertainment for this date, will be in the hands of Hugh Hannon, Mrs. Walter Betka, Mrs. Harry Sturdevant and Mrs. Fred Rote. Other committees will be announced at a later date.

Will Never Send Any American Boys To Europe To Fight, Says Willkie

(International News Service)

CHICAGO, Sept. 14.—To his first scheduled audience of Friday—a crowd of 10,000 gathered at the Union Stockyards — Wendell L. Willkie predicted that if President Roosevelt is elected to a third term, the national debt will increase to 75 or one hundred million dollars. "Is there anybody here so damn dumb as to think this can go on for another four years?" the candidate thundered. "I shall not promise you the moon but rather, honest jobs in private industry."

The candidate also pledged himself to build an impregnable national defense through building a strong economic nation and repeated an earlier pledge never to send an American soldier to Europe.

"Why did Hitler strike at England and France?" he asked. "Because they were weak economically. If you elect me I will build an American economy so strong that no dictator will ever dare to strike. If you elect me president, I shall never send an American boy to Europe to fight."

Millinder Is Found Guilty

Man Convicted Of Brutal Slaying Of Faye Gates, Life Imprisonment Recommended

(International News Service)

BELLEFOUNTE, Pa., Sept. 14.—A jury in centre county common pleas court Friday afternoon returned a first degree murder verdict against Richard Millinder in the Faye Gates case and recommended life imprisonment.

Millinder heard the verdict without blinking but his wife, Mrs. Evelyn Millinder, bowed her head and turned from the jury.

The jury of nine men and three women made known its verdict in the crowded courtroom at 1:40 p. m. E. S. T. after two hours and forty minutes deliberation.

The women spectators cried out as the jury foreman finished reading the verdict but there was no demonstration. Millinder sat down and held his hands. His wife stared silently at the counsel table, where she sat with defense attorney Lewis O. Harvey.

President Judge of Centre county common pleas court Ivan Walker failed to indicate when he would impose sentence.
